What the Angel Said

by Bruce Miller

I put this Easter song together years ago. The tune is roughly “Don’t be Cruel” by O. Blackwell and E. Presley. The tune writers may be a little before your time. If you have free time Easter afternoon, see how many of the scripture references you can locate and write down in 15 minutes.

Early that sad Sunday,
Women went to the grave
To pay their last respects.
This is not what they expect.

chorus:
"Jesus lives,"
That's what the angel said.
"Jesus lives.
Why look among the dead?"

They fetched Pete and John,
Who came on the run,
Found the stone rolled aside,
Empty grave-clothes inside.

chorus

Jesus spoke with Magdalene,
Peter and the other ten,
To five-hundred on the hill,
Stopped Paul on his way to kill.

chorus

(bridge I'm not happy with but D♭C has one):

He is the risen lord.
He will be here and everywhere adored.
The Service and Outreach committee has recommended that 12 local charitable organizations be included in the spending plan for 2018 which was approved at the annual congregational meeting on January 21, 2018. At the January S&O meeting, we decided to provide some info about these various local groups with which we work and to whom we donate money. This is the first such article.

C-U at Home

What: CU at Home is an organization that provides opportunities for people with permanent addresses in C-U to learn about issues regarding homelessness in the community and to help in assisting the most vulnerable homeless in finding their way to healing and restoration. C-U at Home has 5 areas of focus: housing, transportation, street outreach, education and advocacy, and the Phoenix Daytime Drop-In Center. The Phoenix is the best-known part of the C-U at Home’s work and is one of the main ways that friends from the community have an opportunity to interact with those without an address.

Less widely known is the fact that C-U at Home operates three homes that provide people an opportunity to get their lives together. This supportive transitional housing includes weekly case management sessions and spiritual mentoring. The transportation ministry provides safe transportation to other communities which provide substance rehab and detox beds (currently there are no detox services in Champaign County for those without insurance) and shelter programs.

Who: C-U at home has at least 5 paid people (some full-time, some part-time), and a full-time intern to staff the various ministries. However, it depends upon a large network of volunteers, business partners and faith communities to help at the Phoenix, and to provide in-kind and financial donations. C-U at Home gets no governmental funding through state or federal grants. Its main fundraiser is the One Winter’s Night event. FMC has participated in this event for at least 4 of its 6 years.

Where: The Phoenix building also includes the staff offices of C-U at Home. It is located at 34 E. Green St., Champaign (about 1 block west of First Street).

When: The Phoenix is open Tuesday – Friday, noon to 5:00 p.m. The other outreaches are on-going and some (such as the street outreach) are almost 24/7.

Austin’s Place

What: Austin’s Place is the only emergency overnight shelter for single women in Champaign County. It has a capacity for 8 women and is open only during winter months. It is in its 11 season. In 2016-17, during its three months of service, it provided 301 beds and served 22 different women.

Who: Austin’s Place is manned and staffed entirely by volunteers. This includes two female volunteers every night and others who launder the bedding, provide transportation, handle publicity and keep account of the donations.

Austin’s Place works with Courage Connection, which provides a screening/registration and check-in service each evening. Then volunteers transport the women to the shelter itself.

Austin’s Place depends on community support financially. It works at raising awareness of issues surrounding homelessness by having info tables at public and community events and providing speakers. Though it doesn’t have a regular fund-raising event, it has been one of the “Round-Up” recipients at Common Ground Food Co-op for a few years.

Where: Austin’s Place is hosted at First United Methodist Church of Champaign located at 210 W. Church Street in Champaign (near West Side Park).

When: This season, Austin’s Place is open from December 11, 2017 to March 15, 2018. Check-in at Courage Connection is at about 8:00 p.m. each evening

Thursday Morning Bible Study recently studied the praise-filled Psalm 111 and learned that it was an acrostic psalm – each line beginning with a successive letter of the 22 character Hebrew alphabet. We wrote the following praise-filled acrostic Psalm using the English alphabet.

Amazing God, you never give up on us.
Beyond our imagination you are, O God!
Changing difficulties into joy, dark times to light.
Delight in the ways God shows us glory and works miracles.
Earth and sky show your majesty and beauty.
Faithful and true to your word, O God.
Gracious God, your love and mercy hold us up.
Holy God, you let us glimpse your holiness.
In glory we praise your name.
Kathy praises your name in the company of all these saints around me.
Lavish love on the loveless, O God.
My life is full because of your bounteous mercies.
Nothing escapes your notice and your compassion, O God.
Open our hearts to those who need us each day.
Powerful possibilities roll from your fingertips, O God.
Quiet is when we hear your voice.
Righteousness and mercy flow from you, God.
Surely, goodness and mercy have followed me – thank you!
Trust in God for hope and healing.
Upon your grace I will rely.
Vitality you give us, let us use it to praise your name.
When darkness swallows the light, you are present and remain faithful.
Xalting (exalting) your name above all names, we sing your praises.
Yelling your greatness at the top of my lungs will be my joy.
Zion declares your glory throughout the nations.
Upstander

- by Pete Shungu

There's no such thing as an innocent bystander
Cuz if you see someone being bullied
Or you see someone being victimized by domestic violence and you do nothing
then you are encouraging that violence to continue
If you consistently turn your back on situations where people are suffering, people are in trouble and say it's not my problem
then you are part of the problem
We live in a world of privilege and oppression
of haves and have nots
This world is far from perfect, but it's all that we got
So we got- to care for one another, share with one another,
play fair with one another,
And instead of standing by
we need to start standing up.
Be an upstander
Cuz when we stand up together,
we got each other's backs
When we stand up together,
we stop bullying and domestic violence in its tracks
When we stand up together,
we help to provide a safe space
When we stand up together,
we make the world a better place
When we value each person as a unique human being,
And allow each person to just be themselves
instead of all trying to fit into some cookie cutter image of what we think is cool
Then we all thrive-- we all survive
Cuz no one should ever be told that who they are is wrong
This is for that Black student who gets called the n word by a white person and feels powerless to say or do anything about it
This is for that gay student who’s getting bullied every day and feels like there’s no escape
This is for that student who gets arrested for bringing a clock to school because some ignorant people think that brown skin plus Muslim sounding name equals terrorist
This is for that female student who gets told that she’s ugly because she doesn’t look just like those impossibly thin models in the entertainment industry-- not realizing that she truly is beautiful, both inside and out
This is for that student who doesn't fit into our false socially-constructed gender binary, who doesn't feel that those neat little boxes of male and female fully describe who they are, and is told that means something's wrong with them
Nothing's wrong with you
What's wrong is society
But we have the power to change that
We have the power to change the world
